LESS 60 Days

Change*

WELCOME

Before Day One

Thirty days changes a habit. Sixty days changes a lifestyle.

This is the long-game version of LESS: same gentle rules — not perfect, not zero, just less — but with enough runway for the new normal to actually become normal.

Around week three or four, most people hit the flat middle: the novelty's gone, the finish line's far.

That's exactly why this journal exists. The middle is where the real change gets made — and you'll have a page waiting for you every single day of it.

If what you're stepping down is something your body leans on hard, bring a doctor into the plan. Sixty days is a journey worth doing safely.

My 60-Day Step-Down Plan

What I'm doing LESS of, in my own words:

Where I'm starting from (my honest current amount):

My why — what less makes room for:

My swap plan — what I'll reach for instead:

60 Days. A Whole New Normal.

Sixty days ago, the habit had a bigger vote in your life than you did. Look at the math now: two months of noticing, choosing, adjusting, and continuing.

This isn't a streak anymore. It's who you are. The flat middle didn't stop you. The hard days didn't stop you. Nothing stopped you.

Write the story of your 60 days — where you started, what almost got you, and the new normal you built.

*Sixty days of less. A lifetime of more.
You built that.*
