

ILIKEITDEEP · A GUIDED JOURNAL

30 Days Free

A Daily Journal for Letting Go of the Habit That's Holding You

printable pdf · 30 daily pages · you name the habit

WELCOME

Before Day One

There's a habit in your life that takes more than it gives.
You know the one — it's why you're holding this journal.

For the next 30 days, this journal is your daily meeting with yourself: a few minutes to check in, tell the truth, and put another day of freedom on the pile.

The rules are kind: a hard day is not a failed day, and a slip is not a reset of who you are. You just turn the page and show up for the next one.

If the habit you're freeing yourself from is a heavy one,
please pair these pages with real support — a doctor, counselor, or group. Freedom loves company.

My 30-Day Commitment

What I'm doing for the next 30 days:

My why — the real reason, the one that matters:

What I'll do when it gets hard:

One person or support I can lean on:

30 DAYS FREE · DAY 1 OF 30

Day 1

today was: good hard mixed proud

What did freedom give you today that the habit would have taken?

30 DAYS FREE · DAY 2 OF 30

Day 2

today was: good hard mixed proud

When did the pull show up today, and what did you do with it?

30 DAYS FREE · DAY 3 OF 30

Day 3

today was: good hard mixed proud

What triggered you today — a feeling, a place, a person, boredom?

30 DAYS FREE · DAY 4 OF 30

Day 4

today was: good hard mixed proud

What did you do with your hands and your time instead today?

30 DAYS FREE · DAY 5 OF 30

Day 5

today was: good hard mixed proud

Who or what helped today, even a little?

30 DAYS FREE · DAY 6 OF 30

Day 6

today was: good hard mixed proud

What's getting easier? What's still hard? Be honest about both.

30 DAYS FREE · DAY 7 OF 30

Day 7

today was: good hard mixed proud

What did the habit used to promise you — and what actually delivers that now?

Weekly Check-In

DAY 30 · YOU DID IT

30 Days. Look at You.

Thirty days ago you made yourself a promise,
and then you kept it — one ordinary, brave day at a time.

Whatever the month held — clean days, close calls,
maybe a stumble you got back up from — you finished.

That's who you are now: someone who finishes.

What do the next 30 days look like? Write your plan — keep going, ease up, or take on the next thing.
