

ILIKEITDEEP · A GUIDED JOURNAL

Losing a Pet

Just losing your best friend, and the silence in the house after.

I LIKE IT DEEP · A GUIDED JOURNAL

Losing a Pet

Just losing your best friend, and the silence in the house

*"Write it. Feel it. Heal it.
Your journal knows the real you."*

BEFORE YOU BEGIN

A Note Before You Begin

People sometimes say 'it was just a pet' — and if you're holding this journal, you already know how wrong that is. They greeted you like you'd been gone for years, even after five minutes. They knew your moods before you did. That's not a small loss. It's a real one, and it deserves a real place to land.

How did they come into your life? Tell the whole story, even the small details.

What did their face do when they were happiest — the ears, the tail, the whole-body wiggle?

What was their personality? Stubborn, goofy, anxious, fiercely loyal — who were they, really?

What was your routine together — the walks, the feeding time, the spot on the couch that was theirs?

What's a moment they seemed to know exactly what you needed, without you saying a word?

What did they teach you, just by being who they were?

What's the first thing that felt different once they were gone — the quiet, the empty bowl, the door you don't open the same way?

What's a habit you still catch yourself doing, like calling their name or listening for their footsteps?

Is there a smell, a sound, or a time of day that brings them right back?

If you have other pets, how have they responded to the loss? How has that affected you?

What does it feel like to walk past their things — the leash, the bed, the toys?

LOSING A PET · PHOTO PAGES

This was the day _____

glue or tape a photo here

A little about this photo:

LOSING A PET · PHOTO PAGES

This was the day _____

glue or tape a photo here

A little about this photo:

LOSING A PET · PHOTO PAGES

This was the day _____

glue or tape a photo here

A little about this photo:

LOSING A PET · PHOTO PAGES

This was the day _____

glue or tape a photo here

A little about this photo:

Write them a letter. Tell them everything — the thank-yous, the apologies, the things only they would understand.

If you were part of the decision to let them go, what do you wish you could tell yourself about that day?

What's a piece of them you carry in how you love things now?

What would you want them to know, if they could somehow know it?

What's one thing that felt okay today, even a small thing?

What do you need permission to feel today — including relief, if that's part of it?

What's a way you can honor them this week — a photo out, a donation, a walk in their favorite spot?

Write down one thing you know for sure about how much you loved them, even if everything else feels uncertain.

*They didn't know how to love you halfway.
Neither will this ache — but it will soften.*

ILIKEITDEEP.US · STAY DEEP

